Tomorrow will be the only "Friday the thirteenth" in the good year 1915.

Logan county was one of the last counties to get in, but when the report came it elected Tom Rhea.

A. Rowdy, C. Hyde and A. Chance, were three bride-grooms reported in the Lexington Leader, Tuesday.

Stanley's vote has reached 100,048 with other counties to hear from. His plurality is more than 40,000 and his majority about 20,000.

Bilbo, who ran for Governor in Mississippi, beat the field by 1,027 votes. Stanley beat his field by 45,000, with three left at the post.

Commissioner J. D. Alexander, the only one of the old commissioners in Nashville who has held on, was ousted from office Tuesday on a charge of grafting. He was not allowed to resign.

When the Democrats of Kentucky come together in convention, a chairman of the state committee should be chosen who does not have to wear an iron band around his head and have his pantaloons enlarged after he is elected.

Judge J. M. Benton was defeated in the Winchester district by Judge W. R. Shackelford, of Richmond, and is hollering "fraud." The Judge may overlook the fact that sometimes the voters want a change even when the incumbent is a good man.

Dr. Steven Langdon, a scientific expert, says recently discovered tablets show that Noah and not Eve ate the forbidden fruit. You've got your wires crossed, Professor. Noah is the man who invented navigation and then got drunk. It is gallant to defend Eve, but the lady was caught with the goods.

The American battleships, the Louisiana and New Hampshire have sailed from Newport, R. I. to Vera Cruz, in response to an urgent request from Commander McNamee that his little fleet of gunboats in Mexican waters be re-enforced, in view of anti-foreign demonstrations at Carranza's capital. The Pan-American conference resumed its deliberations on the Mexican situation in New York yesterday. Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott announced from El Paso that he had received satisfactory promises from Villa.

Dr. Anna T. Quensel, a noted zoologist, of the Swedish University of Upsala, does not believe in kissing. She lectures upon the subject and hopes her talks will have a beneficial effect upon the younger generation. She says:

"My husband has never kissed me and I have never kissed him. Neither of us has ever kissed anyone. We are both very active members of the Continental Anti-Kissing League. We believe kissing is unsanitary and a menace to good health. In Europe agents of the league are assigned to public parks, railroad stations and steamship piers. It is their duty to separate persons who are about to kiss and deliver a lecture on the perils of osculation. Every kiss leaves thousands of bacilli."

If the lady has never been kissed, she is hardly a competent authority on a subject of which she is ignorant. See here, Anna, why don't you and your hubby insure your lives and try just one smack and let his microbes and your microbes fight it out in the lip trenches?

A Yearning.

I wish I could find a cool
And a quiet glade
And spend the summer by a pool
Of lemonade.

Why lemonade we cannot see,
You surely are a goose,
The pool for which you yearn should be
Of pure grape juice.

J. D. DUNCAN DIES IN CADIZ

Long a Tobacco Dealer of This City--Buried
Here.

Mr. J. D. Duncan, a venerable and highly regarded tobaccoist of this city, died Tuesday morning in Cadiz, where he was visiting his son-in-law, Julian Atwood. Mr. Duncan moved here from Kirksville, Ky., about twenty years ago. He had been engaged in the tobacco business since that time here, having been connected with several local dealers.

Mr. Duncan was about 70 years of age. He was a devoted member of the Christian Church. The funeral services took place at Cadiz yesterday morning and the body was shipped here for interment in Riverside Cemetery with Masonic honors.

HAMLETT GETS IN

Local Man Leads In Much Mixed-up Race For Secretary.

BLACK DEFEATS EDWARDS

Mountain Man Comes Under The String Winner By a Nose.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 11.—Latest returns from the democratic primary held last Saturday indicate the nomination of Barksdale Hamlett for secretary of state.

Both James P. Edwards and James B. Black are claiming the nomination for lieutenant-governor. Unofficial figures from 108 out of 120 counties give Black a lead of 1,000.

HON. JAMES D. BLACK

In the Auditor's race the returns put Robert L. Greene slightly in the lead, but this morning the Rhea men had not given up hope, and were still making claims at Frankfort that their man would prove a winner.

In the race for Treasurer between Goodpaster and Terrell, Goodpaster apparently has his race won.

For Clerk of the Court of Appeals the latest returns indicate the nomination of Rodman Keenon, and for Commissioner of Agriculture Cohen's victory is assured.

The late returns, so far as the Governor's race is concerned, merely serve to increase the plurality of Owsley Stanley and it may run over 45,000.

COL. GAINES STILL FUNNY

Will Never Again Run For Office Until The Women are Voters.

Trenton, Ky., Aug. 11.—In the current issue of his paper, the Todd County Progress, Col. Loving W. Gaines, late candidate for the democratic nomination for lieutenant-governor of Kentucky, says editorially among other things: "I accept the result and will give the democratic nominee of the state primary my hearty personal and editorial support. I enjoyed the political game while it lasted (my first experience in running for office), and bear neither sore spots nor regrets. It was a contest over an issue, not men; hence the surprises and results. I am deeply grateful to my friends everywhere, to the unfaltering support of the press, and to the sweet loyalty of my home people. My political weight having been determined and found too heavy for a racer, I shall hereafter content myself with the show ring, where style and not speed is wanted."

"I never expect to be a candidate for office again until the women are voters."

DOMESTIC SCIENCE

Will Be Added To The High School Course Next Month.

NEW PRINCIPAL HAS ARRIVED

Superintendent Marion Is Getting Things In Shape For The Fall Term.

That Prof. J. W. Marion and the city board of School Trustees have not been taking a vacation during the summer months, is easily shown by the change in the appearance of the interior arrangement and equipment of the High School building. All of the rooms, which were left vacant, to be equipped in the future, when the building was fitted up after its erection three years ago, have now been made ready for use as they were originally intended.

The greatest and most noticeable improvement is the installation of electric lights in the hall and some of the rooms. Handsome chandeliers swinging from the ceiling, are in the front hall, the main entrance and in several of the administration offices.

The room on the left side of the entrance, formerly used as a class room, has been furnished as a meeting chamber for the Board of Education. This room is easily the handsomest one in the high school building. It is furnished in dark wood, with green walls and stained floors. A large electric light hangs over the sitting table, which is in the center of the room.

On the other side of the hall, past the principal's office, there will be a room furnished for a rest room for the ladies. The class room of the Eighth Grade, which will be moved from Virginia Street School, will also be on the first floor. This class will occupy the room formerly employed as a science lecture room. Cloak rooms for both girls and boys will be added to this room. The science lecture room will be moved into the physics laboratory and the biology room will be used for both physics and biology laboratory.

In the basement the equipment for Domestic Science, for the girls, is already being put in. One room will be fitted up as a modern kitchen, with a large gas range and twenty individual small size stoves. Next to this there is a neat up-to-date pantry, with a completely equipped dining room adjoining. In the basement also is the girls sewing room adjoining, where there are machines and cutting tables for the purpose of teaching the girls to become expert in sewing.

All these many new additions will be in absolute completion by the opening of the fall term. The school building is open in the morning and any friends who wish to visit the school will be welcome by Prof. Marion.

Prof. Grover C. Koffman, the new principal, arrived here on last Friday and he and Mrs. Koffman are staying temporarily at Bethel College. Prof. Koffman comes here from Cox College, of Atlanta, Ga., where he was Dean of the college and occupied the chair of Mathematics. He has entered into his work here with great enthusiasm and interest and is delighted with the splendid prospects for the coming term. Prof. Koffman has already made many friends by his pleasant manners and attractive personality. While attending the Jackson University, Tenn., he was a letter man on all three of the athletic teams and promises to take the athletics of the school under his personal direction. Prof. Koffman is at his office during the morning and will be glad to have any of the pupils and patrons of the school who desire to become acquainted with him or discuss any matters concerning the school work, to see him there.

Prof. Marion and Prof. Koffman have been re-arranging the curriculum this week and have almost completed the outline of the courses for

HOT AFTER THE TURKS

Gen. Hamilton Reports Important Advance Against the Dardanelles.

RUSSIANS CONTINUE RETREAT

Civilians Killed in Air Raids by Both Allied and German Squadrons.

London, Aug. 10.—Greater efforts by the allies to force the Dardanelles and thus succor the Russians, hard pressed by the Austro-Germans, and at the same time influence the Balkans, and a Zeppelin raid on England in which fourteen persons were killed and fourteen wounded, are features of last night's war news.

For some time news from the Dardanelles has been more cheerful for the British. While no details of operations there have been given out, the public has been told that the hope for a successful issue is brighter.

The renewed attempt against the Turkish positions appear to be a concerted one. Attacks at the tip of the peninsula, along the Krithia road, have gained the British 200 yards on a front of 300 yards, and at Sari Bair an important crest has been occupied, according to Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton, the British commander.

Military critics regard the forcing of the Dardanelles as of the greatest importance, for they assert that it is the only way the allies can render immediate aid to Russia and repay her for the great sacrifices she has made for the common cause. It also is believed that a success here would bring the Balkans definitely over to the side of the allies. Italy is understood to be prepared to lend a hand in the Dardanelles operations.

In their latest aerial raid over the English coasts, Monday night and this morning, the Germans lost a Zeppelin. It was attacked by gunfire while returning home after having dropped and was so seriously damaged that it fell into the sea and was towed to Ostend, Belgium, where allied airmen attacked and destroyed it.

The Teuton armies advancing east of Warsaw and those which have crossed the Vistula at Ivangorod and Field Marshal Mackensen's forces are joining hands and making another effort to catch and destroy the Russian armies. The Russians, however, are believed here to be fairly safe by now.

In the west German attacks, the French report, have been repulsed in the Artois and Argonne regions, while Sir John French says the British under a heavy artillery fire found some of the trenches captured from the Germans south of Hooge untenable and evacuated them.

The British torpedo boat destroyer Lynx has struck a mine in the north sea and sunk. Four officers and 22 men were saved. Vessels of this class general carry a crew of about one hundred.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We are authorized to announce J. SOL FRITZa candidate for Commissioner for the city of Hopkinsville, subject to the action of the voters of said city in the Primary election to be held Saturday, Oct. 16th, 1915, as provided by section 3480 b, sub. sec. 6, Ky.
statutes.Bob and Matt and Gus and Sid and Bunk and Jack were among the boys who won.Stanley carried Paducah by 250 votes but McChesney carried the whole county by 238.Neighbor Hatcher, who ran for State Senator in Barren county, was defeated by Ballard Trigg.Three German officers, direct descendants of Gen. Blucher, have been killed in the present war.Gov. Geo. W. Goethals, governor general of Panama, has resigned, to take effect Nov. 1.Col. Z. C. Graham defeated John G. Miller, Jr., for representative in McCracken county by 44 votes.Lawrence Tanner gave Ben Ringo a close run for Commonwealth's attorney in the Owensboro district.
Ringo's majority is only 102.Gus Thomas' big majority on first returns was cut down by later reports to about 1,500. Bunk Garner, for circuit judge, also of Mayfield, was elected by 2,000 majority.McChesney beat Stanley only 63 votes in his native county of Livingston. Senator Beckham's native county of Nelson gave Stanley 400 plurality.N. Powell Taylor beat Jack Berry for Commonwealth's attorney in the Henderson district by 33 votes. Sam
V. Dixon, for circuit judge, has 1-066 votes over Judge L. Dorsey.In a three-cornered race for Commonwealth's attorney at Paducah, in which their strength was almost equally divided, Jack Fisher beat E.
H. Puryear and J. L. Price by 8
votes.Sid Douthitt defeated Billy Klair
for railroad commissioner in the Central district by a decisive majority.
We don't know Mr. Douthitt, but a new commissioner was needed in that district.Lee Gibson, of Madisonville, was nominated over J. W. Blue, of Marion, by a big majority. J. E. Baker, of Caldwell, has 500 plurality for Commonwealth's Attorney over Ed Young and Ruby Laffoon, both of Madisonville.The Sunday School lesson of the day after the election was no doubt especially interesting to four candidates in the elections of the day before. In Paducah E. H. Puryear and J. L. Price split up the vote of Mc-Cracken county and let Jack Fisher, of Benton, win the nomination for Commonwealth's attorney. In Madisonville, Ruby Laffoon and Ed Young, cousins, did exactly the same thing for the benefit of Elliott Baer, of Princeton. Truly, "A house divided against itself shall fall."

KEEP UP FIGHT FOR LAND

Another Effort Being Made to Recover New York Property That is of Immense Value.Some two centuries and a half ago, when Sturdy Wouter van Twiller was governor of the New Netherlands, a buxom Dutch vrouw, Anneke Jans Bo-gardus, owned a plot of land in the lower part of Manhattan island. Vrouw Bogardus had cows and chickens, doubtless, and many children. Whether she had many or few, there are now almost countless descendants.
And from time to time they bestir themselves to recover the land of Anneke Jans, or the value of it. Inasmuch as the value is almost beyond calculation, the effort, though always futile, is somewhat exciting.It seems, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer, to have been proved satisfactorily that some descendant of Anne-ke Jans sold out in 1705 to Sir John Lovelace, the English governor. Sir John disposed of the land to Trinity church, which now holds it, and which from time to time successfully defends itself against attacks by the multitudinous descendants of Mrs. Bogardus.
Recently a new suit was instituted.
Enough heirs were found to put up the required money to file the papers and pay the lawyers. The case will have to be threshed out for the dozenth time. Dusty old archives will be produced, and quaint old maps. The court will go back to American antiquity, and consult learned research works. And in the end the decision will be against the plaintiffs.Hope springs eternal, and this is a good thing. Everyone enjoys reading about the Anneke Jans case once in a while. It is an old friend, and will be missed when it is definitely abandoned.

SAVING VICTIMS OF DISEASE

Sunlight Has Been Found to Be Particularly Beneficial to Tuberculous Persons.Dr. John H. Pryor of Buffalo has been trying the sun treatment as a substitute for surgery in cases of tuberculosis of the bones and glands.
In Switzerland Doctor Roller has won widespread fame by his success with this treatment, which consists principally in letting children run about naked in the sunshine, even in winter.Doctor Pryor reported at the annual meeting of the Medical Society of the State of New York that he, too, had found the treatment successful. He said:"The child goes practically naked.
In the winter some are permitted games, such as snowshoeing, tobogganing and skiing. One day in February they played unclothed for an hour in the snow. It was a bright, sunny day. This freedom is allowed only after months of exposure and considerable pigmentation and gradual toughening."It is the light, not the heat, of the sun that is beneficial.

Boston Harbor Defenses.

The noises which are heard down
Boston harbor are the result of experiments by the federal government at our forts with a new battery of mortars. The big guns in the forts are also being tested. The object of these experiments is to ascertain definitely what the new batteries and our large disappearing guns can accomplish in the matter of reaching out toward a hostile vessel which might be twenty or more miles from shore.
The harbor is so charted and plotted that the new and highly explosive shells can be dropped into any desired square of the plotted area, which would mean the doom of a vessel occupying that square. These proof tests, which will not probably be concluded
for several days, should settle several mooted questions as to the actual strength of the coast defenses of Boston harbor. The citizens of Boston are of a very peaceful disposition, and averse to wars, but they will not be displeased if they learn that Boston is immune from shells that a foreign vessel might be careless enough to try to hurl into the city some time in the future.—Boston Globe.

Wireless Plant Held in Satchel.

A wireless outfit that weighs only eight pounds, that can be carried in a hand satchel and will send and receive messages up to 300 miles is the invention of Dr. Otto F. Rheinhold of Newark.Tests made before officers of the army and navy in New York proved the miniature set efficient in every respect. Without antennae the instrument is effective for 1,000 yards, and thus is expected to be of invaluable service in the trenches of Europe.
The details of Doctor Rheinhold's miniature radio plant are secret. The mechanism is inclosed in a case measuring five by eight by fourteen inches.
It can be operated with a single dry battery.

Aerial Torpedo to Fly 100 Miles.

An aerial torpedo that will travel a hundred miles under its own power is another formidable weapon of war Germany is about to launch at her enemies. The principle of the aerial torpedo is the same as the water torpedo.It is first projected by compressed air, then travels in a direct line under the power of its own propeller and under the guidance of its own rudder.
With the aerial torpedo perfected,
Germany would have a weapon more terrifying to London than all her zeppelins, taubes, 50-centimeter guns
and undersea cruisers combined.

DOING AWAY WITH WHISKERS

May Be the Advance of Civilization
That Is Clipping Man's Face Trimming.There was a time in the history of man when the whisker was a common feature of every face capable of producing it. When civilization evolved the tempered steel blade and keen edge, man toyed with the whisker like a landscape garden, segregating it into clumps of shrubbery with the alternate bare places.The Civil war period marked the height of this weird practice—a period when men's features looked out from hirsute ambushes and the youth was deemed to have attained maturity only with the arrival of the facial foliage.When soap became a common diversion the mustache began to lose its vogue, though sideburns, weepers and ballycoughs held on persistently.Then men discovered that whiskers accentuated age instead of concealing
it and the trimming began to fall.
Today one gets very close to grandpa
before one discovers that he is no longer young.The final blow against the whisker is being delivered by great industrial concerns in the East that declare it the refuge and trusting place of myriads of microbes, a menace to health and an encouragement to the spread of disease.So whiskers, at least such as remain in the steel industry, are to go, on the doctor's orders. Presently swarms of clean-faced, boyish-looking men will be tripping to work in forge and foundry
in place of the hairy throngs of mi-

DEATH METHODS IN DISPUTE

Question Whether Electrocution Is a More Severe Punishment Than
Is Hanging.Whether electrocution is a more severe punishment than hanging was considered by the Supreme Court of the United States in Maloy versus South Carolina, in which the court upheld the constitutionality of such a law as affecting an offense committed prior to the statute. The contention was made that every law changing the punishment and inflicting a greater one than the law annexed to the crime when committed is unconstitutional as being an ex post facto law, but the Supreme Court holds that the South Carolina statute is not such a law.Referring to the ruling that electro-cution is a less severe punishment than hanging, the Central Law Journal says:"And so if the means or method of inflicting death, a sudden snuffing out of the vital spark instead of slow strangulation to the end, is changed,
some convicts might prefer the strangulation. But the law may declare that the former is a mitigation in severity of the latter, though instances have occurred where death by strangulation did not supervene, though officially declared to have so done."

Fur Markets Disorganized.

The effect of the European war has been felt in few channels more keenly than in the market for furs. Before the war London and Leipzig, with Paris, Petrograd, and St. Louis, were the world markets for fur distribution,
the largest part of the trade being carried on in London and Leipzig. Since the conflict began, the London market has been the only one to conduct business on a large scale, and even here
the demand has diminished. In consequence of prevailing conditions trappers in Canada and the United States are finding difficulty in getting a market for their catch. Probably the greatest sufferers are the Canadian Indians, who have been notified by the trading companies that the usual supplies of food and ammunition will not be advanced against their prospective catches. Sea otter is the most valuable fur at present, with Russian sable
next, followed closely by silver fox,
although when the size of the skins
is taken into consideration the sable is much the greatest in value. More of the world's fur supply comes from the United States than from any other country, with Canada a close second.
Then rank Russia and Australia.

Waterproofing French Uniforms.

In the rainy season, which lasts well into the summer in parts of France and Belgium, the French army authorities faced the necessity of providing an inexpensive and effective means of waterproofing the uniforms of their soldiers. A chemist came to their rescue with the information that the fat extracted from wool while in the process of cleaning it for manufacture would serve their purpose.Experiments proved that the chemist was right. The waterproofing is done by reducing the wool fat to a liquid by the use of a solvent and diluting it with benzine or naphtha. The garment is soaked in this solution for a few minutes. It dries in a short time. Neither the color of the article nor the fabric is impaired by the treatment.

For Mothers.

Now that roller skating days have come again, mothers, try this suggestion and save the children's stockings
as well as bruised knees. Cut out leg parts of worn-out stockings (a pair of heavy ribbed winter stockings make excellent protectors) and pull over the knees. These will cling to the stockings underneath and the extra kneecaps can hardly be noticed.Mid-Summer

HARVESTING AND PACKING STRAWBERRIES

American Quart Boxes of Well-Graded Strawberries—"Fancy" on the Right, "No. 1" on the Left.

The stage of maturity at which strawberries should be picked depends upon the distance they are to be shipped. When grown for the local market they should be picked when thoroughly ripe but not soft, says a new farmers' bulletin, No. 664, of the United States department of agriculture. If grown for a distant market the berries must be picked before they are thoroughly ripe, but they should be fully grown and about three-fourths ripe. If picked before they are colored the berries will shrink and wither, making them unfit for sale. Strawberries should be picked with a short piece of stem attached (about one-fourth to one-half inch). They should never be slipped from the stem, as that spoils appearance and injures their shipping and keeping qualities.

Grading and Packing.

Uniformity in the pack is essential in order to obtain high prices for strawberries, and this can be secured only when the berries have been carefully graded and sorted. Some growers have the berries graded in the field.

A common practice in some sections is to pick the ripe berries of all grades into the same box and when the tray is full to take it to the packing shed, where the berries are sorted and packed. The graders dump the berries on a table and pick out all green, overripe or small berries. The others are placed in the boxes, one of the graders arranging the top layers in such a way that the berries show to best advantage. When berries are packed in this manner, care should be taken not to put the small, inferior berries in the center of the box and the large fine berries on top. The fruit should be uniform throughout the box, with the top layer merely placed to aid to the attractiveness of the pack and to hold the fruit in place. Where the fancy pack is put up, the berries should be divided into two grades.

After the berries are picked they should be placed in the shade as soon as possible, for heat injures the fruit in a short time. The pickers should not be allowed to leave the filled boxes along the rows, where the berries will be exposed to the sun. The shorter the time that elapses after the fruit is picked before it is put into refrigerator cars or refrigerator boxes the better it is for the berries, which will continue to ripen rapidly until they are chilled.

Large Crates Preferable.

Many types of boxes and crates are used for strawberries, but the tendency is toward a standard full-size quart box. In fact, in several states it is illegal to offer for sale a short box; shipments to these markets must be handled to conform with the laws. The boxes now in use are the American or standard quart berry box, which holds a full quart; the octagon box, and the square scale-board type of quart and pint boxes. The American type is the one that is most generally used; it is full size, strongly made, and packs well in the crate. The octagon box is objectionable on account of its shape and the raised bottom. A long, narrow box is not satisfactory, because it is inconvenient to pick up without grasping the sides between the thumb and fingers, and when handled in this way the berries are likely to be mashed. Moreover, the sides of boxes with raised bottoms often split off below the bottom, causing the boxes to tip over.

The scale-board boxes are cheaper than splint boxes, but as the latter are more substantial they are preferred in nearly all markets. The type of crate depends on the boxes used. Any crate substantially built and well ventilated is satisfactory, but cost is an important consideration, as they are not returned to the shipper.

The largest crate that can be handled conveniently is the one to use, as the large ones are cheaper in proportion to the quantity of berries they carry. The 24 or 32-quart crates are generally used, though in some sections the 60-quart crate is employed. Crates with hinged lids have an advantage over others in that they provide for the inspection of the fruit to better advantage. The hinged-lid crate invites inspection and this is a point in its favor.

On "Back to the Soil With Wall Street"

When Wall Street wants good business men she usually goes back to the soil to get them. That financial thoroughfare is said to be honeycombed with men who have plowed barefooted, who have drunk branch water, eaten cornbread and molasses and slept on the floor in their early days. A man is more capable of holding the reins of business who knows how to drive a team of mules, shear a sheep or put a ring in a shoat's nose. A man is better equipped to meet the problems of life who in his youth has walked the log across the creek to get to school, courted the girls at husking bees and pitched horse shoes Saturday afternoon. A man who has spent the moonlight nights of his youth possum hunting, going to protracted meetings and occasionally turning down the community at a spelling match has the right sort of stuff in him to make a good business man. The active officials of most of the large business organizations of America it is said were, with a very few exceptions, raised on the farm, and could swim the creek, pitch hay, chop wood, milk the cows or slop the hogs as easily as they can run world-wide business institutions.

The farmers look to these capable and loyal sons of the soil to assist in the solution of the business problems of agriculture. Wall Street is reputed to be capable of financing everything from a Y. M. C. A. to a war, so why not finance agriculture? It is not sufficient to lend money to a correspondent to lend to a local banker, to lend to a broker to lend to a merchant, to lend to the landlord to lend to a farmer. Such a financial system sounds like the house that Jack built, and is just about as useful. Neither is assistance complete when money is furnished buyers to "move the crop." What the farmer wants is money to hold the crop. What better security is there than a warehouse receipt for a bale of cotton, a sack of wheat or a bushel of corn and why will such securities not travel by the side of government bonds?

The American farmer is a capable plowman. He always has filled and always will fill the nation's granary, larder and wardrobe, but he has nothing to say in fixing the price of his products. The problem confronting the farmers of this nation today is marketing and its solution depends first upon the farmer organizing for concert of action and the co-operation of the financial interests in marketing the crop. Agriculture is the biggest business in America and the only one that has not a financial system adapted to its use.

Trip To Mammoth Cave Will Not Cost A Cent

The Kentuckian has put on a subscription campaign which began July 19, which every contestant will be a prize winner, in which the contestants can work together and help each other and all unite in a common purpose. The plan is a simple one and the proposition is that every lady or girl who secures a club of 20 subscribers to the Kentuckian at $2 for a year's subscription, or a larger number of shorter term ones to make $40, will be given a FREE TRIP to MAMMOTH CAVE, all expenses paid, occupying two days.

Trips to the Cave are always fascinating, especially to the young, and everybody desires at some time to see this greatest of all caverns, the one thing above all else that makes Kentucky a mecca for tourists the world over. Even those who have seen the Cave before find something attractive in visits again and again. The Cave is so vast, its wonders so great and its attractions so numerous that one never tires of inspecting its miles and miles of underground passages.

There is not a neighborhood in Christian or adjoining counties in which some young lady cannot in one day secure 20 subscribers who will pay for a year's subscription to the Kentuckian and the deed is done, and this wonder of the world may be visited without its costing her one cent. The rules of the contest will be easily understood and capable of no understanding.

Subscriptions May Be Sent In at Any Time
From Now Until September 15.

They may be for a year or fractional parts of a year to make up $40 in each club. They may be for one year or more than one, not to exceed 5 years to any one subscriber.

Voluntary renewals in the office cannot be credited to clubs. The young ladies may secure rewards but must bring or send subscriptions in themselves.

Should any girl fail to collect a full club, she may transfer her strength to some friend, or by paying the amount necessary to complete the cost of the trip in cash, she may go on the same basis as the others.

The Contest Began Monday, July 19th And Will Close September 15th.

There will be no restrictions or limitations as to the territory. Get subscribers anywhere in or out of the county.

Only such payments on subscriptions as are made on or after July 19 will be included in clubs.

The contest will be conducted by the Business Manager of The Kentuckian and the names of those who desire to enter the contest for the trips offered will be given every possible assistance in getting up clubs.

In former contests many girls who did effective work in securing subscribers failed to secure awards, because others got more subscribers. This time every dollar collected represents a fixed value and every girl who gets up a club will be sure of the trip. The more the merrier. We would like to take 100 girls on this great outing.

CONSUME MORE SALT.

Production of United States for 1914 a Record Breaker, According to United States Geological Survey.

The salt industry is in some respects unique among the mineral industries. Although most of the metallic and of the other nonmetallic industries reflect industrial world conditions and sometimes sharply fluctuate with them, the salt industry, presumably from its intimate association with the food supply of man, forges slowly but steadily ahead, keeping pace with the increase in population. There has been a steady downward trend in the cost of this most necessary commodity, owing to the abundant sources of supply and also to the great advances made in the last few decades in methods of manufacture. The widespread distribution of salt, however, has led to great multiplication of manufacturing plants, so that plant capacity has greatly outstripped demand. This has tended to lower prices and increase greatly efficiency of operation in the plants that have survived the keen competition.

The salt production of the United States in 1914 was the greatest yet recorded, according to W. C. Phalen of the United States Geological Survey, namely, 34,804,683 barrels of 250 pounds each, or 4,872,656 short tons, valued at $10,271,358. Compared with the production of 1912, which was the largest previously recorded, there was an increase in production of 405,385 barrels and of $148,219 in value.

The domestic marketed production of salt in 1914 was 34,804,683 barrels and the imports were 934,819 barrels, the sum of two quantities being 35,739,502 barrels. This figure, however, does not represent the quantity consumed, for there were exported 587,818 barrels, leaving for home use 35,151,684 barrels, an increase of 148,455 barrels over the consumption of 1913. The imports declined 171,147 barrels, compared with 1913, but the exports increased 85,753 barrels. The imported salt constituted only 2.7 per cent. of the domestic consumption.

Salt occurs naturally in two distinct ways, as rock salt in beds associated with bedded or sedimentary rocks, and in the form of natural brines or bitterns. It is prepared for market by simply mining, crushing and cleaning the rock salt, or by evaporation, which may be either natural, as when the sun's heat is utilized, or artificial, when steam or direct heat is applied.

In the Filian Islands.

In race the Filians are a people of Melanesian stock, much crossed with Polynesians. They are dark in color, have a harsh skin, crisp hair, which is bleached with lime and worn in an elaborate mop, while their features are strongly marked, but not unpleasant. They are sensitive, proud, vindictive, boastful, savage, hospitable, and courteous. The Filians are industrious, especially those engaged in agriculture. The value of the exports of sugar, pearl shells, beche-de-mer, copra, coconut oil, and coconuts has been steadily increasing of late years. The total export trade is now approximately $5,000,000 per annum.

The Stanley Victory.

It is not often that the late Field Marshal Purse Haly, makes a blunder in sizing up a political situation. This year, however, he decided that the majority of the Democratic voters were fools. Accordingly, Mr. McChesney was put forward as the Haly candidate on a fake issue of State-wide prohibition, the party being denied the right to make known its will on that or any other issue through the instrumentality of a platform convention held prior to the primary. In Louisville, the pre-eminent personal worth and mental fitness of Lieut. Gov. McDermott were relied on to hold Louisville muzzled, while the Field Marshal green goodsed the boys out in the bushes.

For the once, Gen. Purse's plans have all gone awry. The result in Saturday's primary is first of all a victory for Democratic common sense. Mr. Stanley has been not a mere plurality, but a clear cut and decisive majority over both opponents. His victory is the most pronounced that has ever been won by any candidate for a Democratic gubernatorial nomination where there was any pretense of opposition.

There is left no possibility of question as to where the Democratic party stands on the question which Haly, McChesney et al. sought to make paramount. The Dem. party stands on and by the county unit law. Mr. Stanley is a majority, not a minority candidate. When the convention is held, its platform will be representative of the majority opinion of Kentucky's Democracy.

With both parties committed to the maintenance and enforcement of the county unit law, the way will be open for a discussion of those issues—and only those issues—that effect the State's material, educational and governmental welfare. Mr. Stanley comes to that discussion well equipped. He is committed to State aid and supervision in the building of roads. He is for a revision of the present system of confiscating by taxation. He is an open opponent of prison contract labor. He stands for broader and better educational opportunities for Kentucky's children. His service in Congress stamps him as a man of action. If elected, as elected he will be, he will find the State ripe and its people ready for an era of constructive development for which the way has already been prepared.

It will first be necessary for Mr. Stanley to clean house and to rid the Democratic party at Frankfort of the machine and the lobby that has so long used it for trade and traffic. He will find the State debt no small burden, but a burden that wise economy will lift. He will come into office owing no man or faction anything, to the Democratic party and the State everything. He has honesty, intelligence, courage and initiative with which to approach the work in hand. The result should be exceeding good.—Times.

MANY USES FOR A WINDMILL

Kentucky Farmer Secures Power for Cream Separator, Churn and Water Plant for the Farm.

Not only is it possible to have fresh water for the stock always on hand, but there are several other advantages to be obtained from the farm windmill. A farmer of Kentucky has so arranged his windmill that its power is made to turn the grindstone, the cream separator and the churn; furnish the water supply for the house;

Eggs for Hatching.

Eggs that are to be used for hatching should be kept in a cool room in which the temperature is more or less moist. A basement that is not too damp is the best kind of a storage room. A room temperature of 45 to 55 degrees is preferable. Fresh eggs invariably show a slightly higher percentage of fertility and hatch slightly stronger chicks than eggs ten days old or more.

SOLDIER'S LOSS OF SIGHT DOESN'T HALT WEDDING

Paris, Aug. 11.—The most pathetic marriage in Paris since the war started was celebrated in the Church of the Antoine quarter between Lieutenant Cantera, who lost both eyes and his left arm in the explosion of a shell at Vauquois, Lorraine, and Mile. Marcelle Pothion, instructor at the Normal school at Tunis.

They were attended by Countess Jean de Castellane, sister-in-law of Boni de Castellane, Miss Holt, founder of the blind institution of America, and Mrs. Bliss, wife of the first secretary of the American embassy. The engagement dated from before the war. After being so frightfully wounded Cantera offered to release his fiancée from her promise. She refused.

Despite the mutilation of his face the couple made a magnificent appearance. The scene at the Mairie before the religious service ceremony filled the spectators with deep emotion.

Upon the official excusing the bridegroom from signing the register the bride spoke up with charming and tender eagerness.

"Yes, yes, he can sign. He would rather. I can help him." As she smilingly guided his hand across the page there were few onlookers whose eyes were dry.

Mr. Roberts had for many years served as County Attorney for Floyd county and was found dead in his office last Friday. Though the news of his death spread quickly through the district, he carried his home precinct at Prestonsburg almost unanimously, and the entire district tendered him the nomination twenty-four hours after his body was found lying face down in the County Attorney's office.

PRESIDENT OF HAITIMore Confidence Felt In Intentions Of United States.

Washington, Aug. 8.—Rear Admiral Caperton reported to the navy department today from Port au Prince that conditions in Haiti were comparatively quiet and that the presidential election scheduled for today by the Haitian congress had been postponed because the time was deemed inopportune for political excitement.

The admiral's dispatch stated that conditions were improving as a result of renewed confidence regarding intentions of the United States toward the country on the part of the native officials.

Except for a slight disturbance at St. Marc, 60 miles north of Port au Prince, the entire island was reported quiet.

The American naval forces today at Croix-des-Bouquets, near Port au Prince, repressed some disorder on the part of a band of brigands. The chief of the band was taken prisoner and placed on board the United States cruiser Washington.

A CANINE MATCHMAKER

By AILSA JENNINGS.

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Br-r-r-wow!" barked the lean and hungry-looking dog at the back door. "Shoo!" scolded Biddy, shaking her apron at the stranger. "Get away wid ye. Scat!"

"What is the matter now, Biddy?" laughed Helena from her bedroom window.

"'Tis a mongrel dog, Miss Helena." "Br-r-r-wow-wop!" snapped the dog mournfully, sidestepping Biddy's broom.

"He is hungry," decided Helena, leaving the window. "I'll come down, Biddy."

"Ah!" lamented Biddy with another vicious though futile assault with the broom. "Feed him ye will and thin there'll be no gettin' rid of the brute."

Helena was patting the strange dog while she spoke to him in a soft tone. His big brown eyes looked appealingly at her; his plummy tail, snarled with burs and briars, thumped the ground. "He's an Irish setter, Biddy," said Helena.

"Shure, he's no credit to the race, mum! Here, ye good-for-nothing beggar, drink all the water ye want!"

Biddy's attitude toward the dog changed at once. She petted him and fed him, and even scrubbed him until the silky coat glistened.

One day there appeared at the Appletons' gate a low-swung, wicked-looking racing machine. Its owner, a thin, red-haired young man with very bright red-brown eyes, jumped out and entered the yard.

As the gate clanged, the dog, lying at Helena's feet, lifted his head, growled delightedly and bounded down the path.

Helena turned to watch him.

The red-haired motorist opened wide his long arms and chuckled with joy as the big dog clumsily embraced him.

"Easy—easy—easy—Captain!" laughed the man. "Glad to see me, eh? Old fellow, I've missed you like the dickens!"

Captain's recognition of his master was most convincing. The dog's joy was a most touching tribute to the young man's capacity to inspire canine affection. Meanwhile Henry Dacre was looking at Helena with frank curiosity in his brilliant eyes.

"I believe we are old acquaintances, after all," he smiled.

"Indeed?" returned Helena, stiffly. She already hated him cordially because he had come after his dog. "I do not remember."

"You used to call me 'Red-Headed Hen,' and once you slapped my face," he explained. "I lived next door to you in Ashley street."

"Oh—!" There was a world of recollection in Helena's face. "You were such a hateful little boy!" she cried impulsively.

Finally he went away, bearing three things with him:

One was the joyful dog, another was Mrs. Appleton's invitation to dinner, and the last but not the least was the memory of Helena's lovely, scornful face as she gave him the tips of her fingers.

Fate was so embarrassing at times! To think she was compelled to love a dog when she detested his master!

For Helena was just unreasonable enough to dislike the grown-up Henry as heartily as she had the little scampish boy.

He told the Appletons that he had bought a place in the neighborhood and they often saw the low gray car, with Captain sitting gravely beside his master.

In the weeks that followed poor Captain came often to the Appleton's door begging for admittance, and Helena often enjoyed a few stolen hours in his society.

In the evening Dacre's car would come gliding up the road and presently Helena would hear his laughing inquiry for the dog. She would sit in the fragrant gloom of the porch listening to the rich drawl of his voice as he talked to her parents.

One summer day Dacre put on his bathing suit and slipped across the lots to the beach that bounded his estate. Just as he rounded a heap of rocks he discovered Helena sitting on the sand in the shadow of the pines. Captain's head was in her lap and the dog was looking up at her with blissful adoration in his brown eyes.

"Oh, Captain, dear," sighed Helena. "Why couldn't you be my own dog?"

"He could, you know," answered Captain's master, with exasperating candor.

Helena made no reply.

"Of course you saw my shadow on the sand," went on the provoking youth, sitting down beside her.

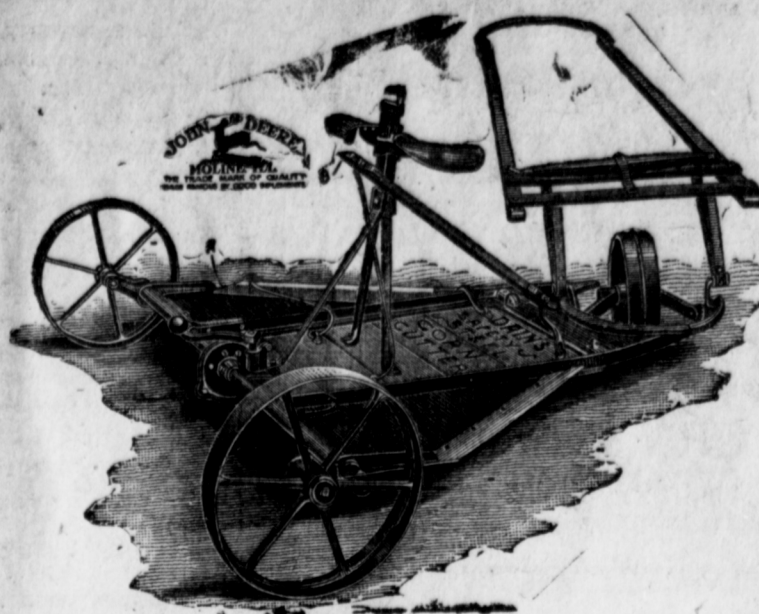

Helena was silent.

"And you pretended not to see me because—oh, well, Helena, why do you pretend you don't like me? Is it because you like me so much?" he whispered in a tone of exquisite tenderness.

"It's because—you are so hateful!" she sobbed, and then she did not resist his strong arms, and she even returned his kisses, so strangely akin are hate and love!

"And Captain shall belong to both of us," Henry said after an interval.

Might Be Either.

Needle Man Killed.

Birmingham, Eng., Aug. 9.—Private Horace Gee, who became known throughout England as "The indispensable man" and as the result of a debate in parliament, has been killed in action in the Dardanelles. After he had enlisted, the Birmingham chamber of commerce petitioned parliament to release him from military service as an expert maker of needles were indispensable to the boot trade of central England. The matter was brought up in parliament and the government was compelled to defend its refusal to release Gee, stating that the shortage of needles had not so far affected the rates of production of army boots.

MONEY FOR HIGHWAY

Hopkins County Will Spend $50,000 For Dixie Bee Line Route.

Madisonville, Ky., Aug. 19.—At the meeting of the Fiscal Court of Hopkins county, held here this afternoon, resolutions were adopted unanimously by the court appropriating $50,000 to be used provided the route of the Dixie Bee Line is selected through this county. The sum is to be set aside during the years 1916 and 1917. In addition to this sum, the Hopkins county Dixie Bee Line Association, recently organized, proposed to raise additional funds, which will probably increase the total considerably, and with this end in view the Ways and Means Committee has been notified to meet here next Thursday afternoon. RIGHT AGE TO BREED GILTS

Eight Months Is Period Adopted by Most Practical and Successful Breeders of Swine.

It is generally conceded among the most practical and successful breeders that to obtain the best results a gilt should not be bred until at least eight months old, says Farmers' Advocate. Many of the most noted breeders will under no circumstances breed a gilt under twelve months where they intend keeping her for their own use.

Solitude.

Laugh, and the world laughs with you;

Weep, and you weep alone;

For this brave old earth must borrow its mirth.

It has trouble enough of its own.

Sing, and the hills will answer;

Sigh! It is lost on the air;

The echoes bound to a joyful sound,

But shrink from voicing care.

Rejoice, and men will seek you;

Grieve, and they turn and go;

They want full measure of all your pleasure,

But they do not want your woe.

Be glad, and your friends are many;

Be sad and you lose them all;

There are none to decline your nectared wine,

But alone you must drink life's gall.

Feast and your halls are crowded;

Fast, and the world goes by;

Succeed and give, and it helps you live,

But no men can help you die.

There is room in the halls of pleasure

For a long and lordly train;

But one by one we must file on

Through the narrow aisles of pain.

Wives are still obtained by purchase in some parts of Russia. In the district of Kamyskin, on the Volga, this is practically the only way in which marriages are brought about. "Hair of the Dog." When a man is debilitated from the effects of the previous night's debauch he is frequently counseled to take "a hair of the dog that bit him," the meaning being that he should take a little of the same kind of liquor that had upset him. The saying is a remnant of an old superstitious belief that the burnt hair of a dog was an antidote against the ill effects of intoxication.

PRaise the Mission School

Bulgaria Expresses Its Gratitude for Work Done in That Country by American Teachers.

Bulgarian mails bring news that the Bulgarian ministry of education has officially certified by decree that the work of the American mission schools at Samokov is equivalent to that of its own national gymnasias. The full text of the certificate, the correct translation of which is officially certified, is as follows:

"The ministry of national education of the kingdom of Bulgaria hereby certifies that the American gymnasias—boys' and girls—in Samokov, Bulgaria, founded more than fifty years ago, and continuing to the present time to carry on their educational and moral activities, have been, during all their existence centers of spiritual culture and progress. The Bulgarian nation has always looked with special respect and honor upon these schools, which even from the dark period of slavery (to the Turks) until today, with special perseverance and zeal, have fulfilled their mission—the education and the moral and spiritual training of the youth. From the last inspection of these schools which it made, the ministry ascertained that they have done very much for their development and perfection, especially on the moral and spiritual side, on account of which the ministry recognized the girl's gymnasium as equivalent to our national gymnasias for girls. In order to fully attain, however, to the standard, both of our gymnasias and of these in Europe as well, it is indispensable that they significantly broaden their activities, by securing a teachers' body, corresponding to those of our national schools and by also procuring modern equipment, laboratory apparatus, libraries, etc. In this way they will enhance the educational side of their work (as well as the moral and religious side), and they will increase still more the gratitude of the Bulgarian nation."

Names Interchanged.

Mary is not by any means the only name that has been borne by men and women alike, writes a correspondent who has dipped into old English parish and other registers. Sir Patience Ward was lord mayor of London in 1680, Eve Sliffiton is mentioned in a will of the sixteenth century, and Grace Hardwin was an old land owner in America. As to male names usurped by the ladies, instances occur of feminine Phillips and Georges, and in one case a daughter was duly baptized Noah. A granddaughter of the duke of Wellington was named Arthur in his honor, and in Effingham church there is a monument to Timothy, wife of Richard Mabanke.

Indorsing It.

The lady who darns socks went into the bank yesterday to cash a check. "You will have to indorse it on the back," said the teller. "I will gladly," said she, and she wrote across the back of the check: "I take pleasure in indorsing this. It is a very nice check."

NOTHING CAN DAUNT WEST

Farmer's Attitude a Fair Sample of the Spirit That Has Made the Country Great.

Wearing an oilskin "slicker" and a "sou'west" hat, a farmer of Miami county, Kansas, stood out in the pouring rain on the edge of a lake of muddy water from the creek that had overflowed and ruined his 50-acre field of corn. A neighbor, passing in a buggy, stopped and shouted: "Hello! Brooding over your troubles?"

"Broodin' nothin'. I'm watchin' them ducks. Ain't they havin' a fine time?" the farmer answered.

That is the spirit that has made Kansas—and the entire West—great. Nothing can daunt these western states. Grasshoppers, floods, droughts, hot winds, tornadoes—no catastrophe can destroy the faith of the true Westerner.

Thousands of acres of crops that promised well are under water now. But the waters will recede, leaving a rich deposit of silt upon the land, as the River Nile enriches its lands, the crops will be replanted, and the added moisture in the soil will make the yield bigger than it would have been; and prices will be higher than they ever were.

All's well in the West!—Kansas City Times.

THREE KINDS OF PUBLIC MEN

David Lloyd-George Classifies Leaders of Opinion in Military Terms—Quick-Firer Leads.

There are three kinds of men in public life. I will tell you what they are, and in military terms. The first is the heavy gun. It fires slowly, ponderously, with much effort, but if the shells contain a good quantity of high explosives, the havoc wrought amongst the enemy is terrible. But if they don't—and very often they don't—they drop heavily into the clay, get thoroughly embedded there, out of sight, and are absolutely forgotten until in a future generation some excavator picks them up as a curiosity to point out the sort of weapon that was used in past dark ages. That is the heavy gun.

There is another—the idealist, the howitzer with a high trajectory, pointing to the heavens, but firing a missile which comes down with crushing effect on the intrenchments of the enemy on the earth.

There is a third—the quick-firing gun, aiming straight at the ranks of the enemy, firing unceasingly destructive shot and shell, breaking through the ranks and dispersing them.—David Lloyd-George.

ANOTHER "EXPERT" NABBED.

More light is thrown on a complicated situation by the arrest in New York of Gustav Stahle, charged with perjury. Herr Stahle, it will be recalled, swore that the Lusitania was armed. If convicted, 99 years in a safe institution would be about right. Stahle is not a safe person to be at large in this country, and if guilty he should be put where the wagging of his tongue cannot possibly do any harm.

SPEAKING HIS MIND.

"I have a little bill for you," said the collector at the door. "How much is it?" asked Mr. Twobble.

"Only $27.80." "My friend, how can you stand before me and call that a 'little' bill? If your purpose is to flatter me, you are wasting your time. Here is a dollar on account. If you wish to say that leaves a little balance of $26.80, you may do so."

THE FITTING ONE.

"I heard Maude ask Frank outright if he had brought any conspires."

"I hope she got a candied reply."

AT THE SALE.

"The women made a regular sortie on the bargains heaped up." "Yes; what you might call a counter-attack."

ACCOUNTING FOR IT.

"There certainly is great opposition to vaccination." "Naturally, lots of people get sore about it."

THE EXCEPTIONS.

Heiress—But you must keep our engagement a strict secret. Snitser—From all but my most insistent creditors, dearest.

CAN'T WAIT FOR BEE LINE

Tourists Are Already Using The Dixie Highway To The South.

A party of tourists from Kansas City, made up of Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Graham and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Miller, came through here yesterday en route to Vero, Fla. They were in two automobiles and have been on the road about two weeks.

In coming here they followed, for the most part, the route of the proposed Dixie Bee Line and found the roads in very good condition except for a small stretch in Webster and Hopkins counties, which they report to be in a very bad condition.

454 AMERICAN WOMEN HAVE MARRIED TITLES.

(Washington Herald.)

According to the year book of titled Americans, compiled by A. E. Hartzell, 454 Americans are either present or divorced wives of those foreigners who are of noble birth or who have been honored by patents of nobility by their sovereigns. But that should not discourage the patriotic young man who can never be anything more than a nephew of Uncle Sam. Only 454 out of several million American women married to the haughty scions of Europe is not much of a batting average.

The English are the most fascinating in the eyes of American fair ones—with the French, Italians and Germans receiving the preference in the order named. Of course, there are more Countesses than any other rank, 136 being entitled to that appellation. The total of Princesses is forty-two, while there are only seventeen Duchesses. The others are Viscountesses, Marchionesses, Baronesses and ladies. One hundred and twenty of them live in London, 118 in Paris and fifty-six in Rome. Strange as it may seem, twenty-six are residents in the United States.

The exchange of vast American fortunes for the doubtful honor of European rank has not really been so great, but when it comes to paying off the war debt the demand for heiresses is likely to be greatly increased.

Probably in all the list no international alliances received more public notice than those of Anna Gould. Her marriage with Count Boni de Castellane and its endless troubles formed material for miles and miles of printed matter and millions of words of discussion. Then came her later marriage to Duc de Tallrand and the tangled ecclesiastical litigation.

One of the first international alliances to attract wide attention was that of Julia Dent Grant, who is the Princess Catauzene of Russia. The wedding of the daughter of a President to a foreign nobleman created a great furor at the time. Another noteworthy event was when Mary Anderson left the stage and the America that loved her so well to become the bride of Antonio de Navarro. Then the turbulent author, Amelle Rives and Prince Pierre Troubetsky were married, which was another nine days' wonder at the time.

When Count Laslo Szechenyi, the Hungarian whose name was a puzzle to all, carried off Gladys Vanderbilt society had a fresh spasm, and those who weren't in society shared in the gossip.

GARNER E. DALTON,
ENTERS RACE FOR CITY COMMISSIONER.

Two girls who became English Duchesses had cause to regret it. Helena Zimmerman, of Cincinnati, married the Duke of Manchester and a sorry time she had of it. They are separated, as are the former Consuelo Vanderbilt and the Duke of Marlborough.

Few brides-across-the-sea in recent years were more widely written about and pictured than Vivien Gould, who became Baroness Desies. Her extraordinary beauty, her great wealth and the elaborateness of the ceremony made it of high importance on both sides of the water.

The tragedy of the former Theodora Shonts is still fresh in the public mind. The honeymoon was hardly over when the Duc de Chalones died mysteriously.

One fortune seemed likely for a time to be devoted to restoring the throne of Portugal. Prince Miguel de Braganza was reported to be desirous of using the millions of Anita Stewart to overthrow the republic and try his hand at the king business, but the bride's mamma, it is said, promptly vetoed the scheme of empire.

Of course some of the international bonds have proved galling, but seemingly most of the marriages have turned out happily. At least the pairs are still living together.

WILL BUILD HIGHWAY AT DAWSON SPRINGS

Madisonville, Ky., Aug. 9.—Dixie Bee Line boosters of Dawson Springs and vicinity will declare Wednesday, Aug. 11, a holiday, when all hands will join in and assist in building twelve miles of good roads in their effort to secure the route of the bee line. The road will be built from Dawson Springs to Earlington, citizens of Earlington and vicinity joining in the movement. Mayor Niles has issued the following proclamation, and every business house in Dawson Springs has agreed to close on that day.

PROCLAMATION.

"By the consent of the people of our city, and upon the urgent request of all concerned, and by the power invested in me as mayor of your beloved city, I hereby proclaim Wednesday, August 11, a holiday, and ask that all business houses of our city be closed on that day for the purpose of allowing all able-bodied men to attend the working of the public highway from the city limits, beginning at the hill known as the 'Bush Alexander' hill, and extending from there to the city limits of Earlington. Also the ladies are asked to prepare dinner for the workmen, and deliver same along the route. The committee for this purpose will aid when you desire to go. Let us show the world that we people of Dawson Springs mean to secure the Dixie Bee Line through the best town on earth."

Earlington citizens started to work on the road extending to Dawson this morning and will spend three days on the job, meeting the Dawson Springs road builders half way. Madisonville will probably join in improving the road between here and Earlington.

A mammoth barbecue, along the line of the one given by Col. Joel Fort at Adams, Tenn., is planned for Aug. 21, by the Hopkins County Dixie Bee Line association, and promoters of the line from all over the county will get together on that date.

Armenian Massacres

A Tiflis dispatch says the Kurds are reported to have massacred 10,000 Armenians at Bitlis, and that 60,000 refugees have arrived at Igdir, the principle outlet of Van, while 100,000 more are expected to be driven out.

Birmingham Chamber of Commerce committee claims over 500 articles are made in that city.

WAS NOT SURPRISED

President of W. C. T. U. Says Body Did All Possible For McChesney.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 11.—Mrs. Frances E. Beauchamp, of this city, the militant President of the Kentucky W. C. T. U. and candidate for Secretary of State on the Prohibition ticket at the November election, when seen said that now that the "little family scrap" among the Democrats is over, the Prohibition would make a hard fight to elect its State ticket headed by Rev. Andrew Johnson for Governor and Col. T. B. Demaree for Lieutenant Governor.

"I am not greatly surprised at the nomination of Mr. Stanley," said Mrs. Beauchamp. "You cannot win political battles without organization and the State-wide did not have a compact, working organization. In many counties, W. C. T. U. unions were largely depended on to create sentiment and get out the vote, and with no organization of forces to speak of this was a difficult task."

"We did all we could for Mr. McChesney, who represented the State-wide sentiment, but our efforts were ineffectual, chiefly thru lack of organization and team work."

"Besides, the voters of Kentucky have for years been feed on local option teaching and you cannot expect for one campaign to wipe out local option and substitute State-wide prohibition. Local option is a big improvement over the licensed saloon, but State-wide prohibition is what the true temperance workers are looking forward to to remedy the liquor evil and we State-widers are going to continue the fight until it is secured. I expect to take the stump myself again this fall and campaign for the success of the State-wide Prohibition ticket."

Lightning Found Them.

John Isham, 18, was killed, and Curtis Gossett, 22, was shocked into insensibility when lightning struck a hollow tree in which the two young men had sought shelter from the rain on the banks of the Tennessee river, just south of Chattanooga this week. Two other men, who had been camping with Isham and Gossett along the river, and who were some distance from the tree at the time the lightning struck, were considerably shocked.

DIES FROM OPERATION

Noted Author Succumbs From Sudden Attack of Appendicitis.

Berkley, Cal., Aug. 9.—George Fitch, the author, of Peoria, Ill., died at a sanitarium here today, having failed to rally from an operation for appendicitis performed yesterday. Mr. Fitch was taken ill on Saturday. He had been visiting his sister, Miss R. Louise Fitch, a student in the University of California. Mr. Fitch came to California early last July with Mrs. Fitch. Arrangements have been made to remove the body to Peoria for burial after funeral services here Friday.

TO THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS OF CHRISTIAN COUNTY.

In all contests for public office some one must go down in defeat, and it seems that I am numbered with the defeated at the last primary. When I realize the conditions and complications that contributed to my defeat, I congratulate myself that my defeat was not greater.

To those who voted for me and stood so loyally by me, I owe a debt of gratitude that I can never repay, and to those who saw proper to oppose me, I entertain the kindest feeling. I am glad I made the race, and proud that I stood for temperance and purity in politics and shall ever do so.

It will be my pleasure to do all in my power to contribute to the success of every nominee of the Democratic party.

Sincerely,
J. B. ALLENSWORTH.
